Music. The fun aid for teachers.

As you know, music can be a powerful influence on a young child's development. It can also bring an uncommon energy to your teaching experience. Whether you're a pre-school teacher, daycare provider, music or dance instructor, Kids' MusicRound (KMR) can teach you the skills and provide the tools you need for a more satisfying, and fun, education experience.

Making music smart.

Our fun-filled music program is designed specifically for infants and children to age seven. During these formative years, a child's innate music potential is actively developing. Our curriculum builds on this vital stage of development by raising a child's natural curiosity about music in a playful and encouraging environment. Our interactive approach is designed to be developmentally appropriate. Each child is allowed to explore, discover, and enjoy the activities at their unique learning level. Through the KMR training program, you will learn activities to educate and motivate children.

"Your workshop was so impressive.

The way you organized the activities then reinforced them with an explanation and handouts was great. I am so excited about starting."

Adopting the KMR Philosophy.

We offer training classes throughout the year. Over three days, participants learn the essentials of the KMR philosophy and program. It's a fresh approach to teaching early childhood music. You will learn new ways to incorporate music and movement into your class or program. This training is designed for early childhood educators and other professionals to provide:

- Renewed energy and fresh ideas
- A unique perspective on children's musical education
- A proven curriculum
- Skills that you can immediately use in your class or program
- Lots of practice and hands-on time

Topics taught by the people who started it all.

Your workshop presenters will be KMR founders Barbara Lysenko and Marilyn Schwartz. You can view their full biographies by visiting www.kidsmusicround.com. Topics they will cover in the three-day session include:

- Early childhood research and educational overview including activity presentations
- Necessary teacher skill set including use of movement, instruments, and play activities
- The stages of music development and BabyRound™ class techniques

You will observe a live demonstration class, and practice your newly acquired skills by teaching a class.
